

sent state of affairs in these Countreys will permit. Our new Maître de Camp General, Don Hieronimo de Quignons, is expected here with much impatience, his Excellency desiring greatly to have his advice in several matters relating to the War, which ought to be dispatched forthwith. We do not yet hear, that the Prince of Orange is returned to the Hague, from his Conference with the Elector of Brandenburg at Cleves. It is much disputed how the Forces of the several Allies will act this Summer, whether jointly or separately. From Vienna they write, that the Imperial Army will act by it self, under the sole Conduct of the Count de Montecuculi, who has obtained of the Emperor, all he demanded concerning his said Com mand.

Ditto, April 2. The Chapter of Liege, has, as we are told, sent to the Prince of Orange, to the Imperial Generals at Bonn, and to our Governor for assistance, in order to the obliging the French, to quit again the Citadell there; and we are told that the Spanish Troops, that are quartered in Luxemburg, and the Imperialists in the Diocess of Liege, begin to march, and that the Prince of Orange will likewise send several Troops to joyn with them. On the other side, the French also draw their Forces together, to oppose the Confederates, so that we may suddainly expect to hear of some action, and the rather, for that the Matter in question, viz. Whether the French shall be possessed of the Cattle of Liege or not, may deserve it. Another great Convoy is lately arrived at Charleroy, and at Aeth we hear, the French are gathering a Body of an Army. Our last Letters from Madrid, tell us of the arrival of the Count de Montecuculi: That Count Egmont has been declared General of the Forreign Cavalry; and the Prince de Vaudemont, Admiral of these Countreys. Don Pedro de Ronquillo, who is going in quality of Envoye Extraordinary for England, on the part of the Crown of Spain, is still here, expecting his final Instructions from Madrid.

Hague, March 29. This morning his Highness returned hither from Cleves, where he arrived the 20 instant, and after having had several Conferences with the Elector of Brandenburg, parted again the 23. It is reported, that his Electoral Highness will make a turn hither, so soon as he is in a condition to travel, being at present indisposed of the Gout. On Monday last the Heer Wicquefort, Resident here for the Dukes of Lunenburg, though, as is said, a subject of this State, and at present, actually in its service, was arrested, and committed to prison, for having held correspondences, greatly to the prejudice of this State and its Allies. The 27 instant the Deputies of the several Admiralties held their last conference, at which, the Lieutenant-Admiral de Ruyter was present, for the regulating the matter of the Equipage for Sea this Summer; They have resolved, that the Squadron of Men of War designed for the Baltique, under the Command of the Sieur de Ruyter, shall consist of 12 large Men of War, of the first ranks, and 12 Fregats, besides Fireships and Gallies.

Ditto, April 2. We are here extremely troubled, at the news we receive of the French having made themselves Masters of the Citadell of Liege, by means of the correspondence they held with the Governor thereof, which is a great blow, and of infinite ill consequence to the affairs of the Allies; though we seem to flatter our selves with the hopes of getting it again out of their hands; for it is said, that the Imperial Troops quartered in that Diocess, do already begin to draw together; that some Forces will be forthwith sent from hence, to joyn with them, and that they, together with the assistance of the Inhabitants of the City of Liege, who encline for the Emperor, will endeavor to force the Enemy to surrender it again into the possession of the Liegeois. It is confidently said, that the Elector of Brandenburg will make a step hither inognito, in order to the holding a farther Conference, for the concluding several Matters, which were left unfinished at Cleves, because the Emperors mind in them was wanting, which has been since communicated: and the Marquis de Grana, who arrived here this day, will assist at this Conference on the part of the Emperor. The States of Holland have made a Déclaration in their Assembly, Copies of which they have ordered to be given to all the publick Ministers here, containing the reasons that have obliged them to imprison the Heer Wicquefort, and farther to proceed against him, as being their natural born Subject, and at this present, in their actual pay, &c. His Highness has for a day or two been indisposed, and obliged to keep his Chamber; but is at present much better, and yesterday his Highness gave publick Audience to the several Forreign Ministers. From Liege they write, that that City was in great disorder and confusion, that the Inhabitant shutting up their Shops and Houses, were continually in Arms, that several who declared for the French had been killed; and that a Message had been sent from the Magistrates to the French in the Citadell, to pray them to retire again, and that if they thought good, they should demolish it, but that they could not suffer they should continue in it.

Paris, April 3. The good news we have of late received from several parts, makes us promise our selves all success this next Campaign, which will now be begun very suddainly. From Sicily we have daily an account of considerable advantage obtained by the Messines, through the assistance of our Troops, over the Spaniards, who have been forced to quit St. Placido, and the Scaletta, the two most considerable Posts they possessed about Messina, where they had laid up great stores of all kind of Provision; besides which, the Duke de Vivonne has made a Descent in Calabria, and by that means, amongst other purchase, taken great quantities of Provisions; and farther, to add to all these successes, we have advyce that Catania and Trepary in Sicily, have likewise revolted. On the other side, our affairs in these parts, advance likewise much to our satisfaction: and yesterday we had news of the Count d'Esprades, Governor of Masfrichi, having received himself Master of the Castle of Liegi, and put 3500 Men in it, though we hear it has occasioned some disturbance amongst the Inhabitants of the City. It is said that Orders have been sent from hence, to assemble forthwith a Body of an Army, about Masfrichi, to secure the said Citadell in our hands.
