Translation of the Extract of a Report from a Hanoverian Officer to Prince Ferdinand of Brunswick. Hoya, Feb. 24.

IN Pursuance of your Orders, the Prince Hereditary of Brunswick began to march to Doevern, Yesterday the 23d, at Seven o'Clock in the Morning: It was Eleven when we arrived there, being obliged to wait for the Hussars and Dragoons. From thence we marched towards Bremen, where, as we were informed, there were some Floats of Timber: We found but one, and two or three small Boats, which might serve to carry about eight Men each. We were too far advanced to think of retiring; and, besides, the Intelligence we had endeavoured to procure about the Place, and the Dispositions made by the Enemy for its Security, gave us some Prospect of Success.

We then detached 30 Hussars upon our Left to Haffel, and Lieutenant Engel with ten Men for the Van. Lieutenant Luckner passed the Weser with 30 more, in order to cover our Right. The Battalion of Oberg's, and the Squadron of Dragoons, were destined to make a feint Attack on the Left Side of the Weser. The three other Battalions were to pass the River, and enter the back Part of the Town. As we had but one Float, the Passage of the Troops over the River took up much Time; and the Wind rose so high, that after one Half of the first Battalion of Brunswick Guards had passed, the other Half was separated by it. Upon this, it was resolved to leave the rest on the other Side, viz. one Battalion of Oberg's, the second Battalion of the Brunswick Guards, the Remainder of the first Battalion of that Regiment, and the Hessian Squadron. Between Four and Five o'Clock we marched with the Regiment of Haufs, a Part of the first Battalion, and a Haubitzer. When we were got upon the Cause-way, about a Mile and a Half from the Town, through some Mistake, which might have cost us very dear, our Detachment fired upon four of the Enemy's Dragoons, who were patrolling. This Firing was caught from one to another, and at last became general. This unlucky Accident was more than sufficient to discover us, and bring us into the greatest Distress. However, a bold Countenance upon the Occasion became necessary; and we marched on, with the utmost Diligence, to the Town. We met, at first, with no Opposition, and advanced as far as the Bridge. There the Fire grew exceeding smart; yet we never gave Ground, though we were so hard pushed. But as the whole Detachment could not equally be brought up, the Prince Hereditary formed the Design of turning the Enemy; and accordingly marched with that Part of his first Battalion that crossed the River with him. It was necessary, for that Purpose, to go round the Town, and to pass through a Garden and a House, and so attack the Enemy in the Rear. This succeeded; and the Bayonet fixed was chiefly used on this Occasion; so that it must be said, Humanity suffered for the Slaughter that then happened. The Enemy abandoned the Bridge; and the Prince joined the Hanoverians again.

The Regiment of Brittany, and some Parties of Dragoons, were upon their March; and as we did not find ourselves absolutely sure of keeping this Post, the Capitulation hereafter mentioned was granted. The Lorraine Guards are demolished. I cannot yet exactly tell their Loss, but it is very great. On our Side, Major Kropf is mortally wounded. Capt. Koppelow has a slight Wound in his Thigh. There are two Men killed, and ten wounded, among the Subalterns and private Men. The Regiment of Haufs had 12 Men killed, and 60 wounded.

The Officers, who particularly distinguished themselves, were, M. de la Motte, who has acted with great Prudence and Courage. Lieutenant Engel commanded the Attack on the Left Side of the River, and did alone, by his well-judged Conduct, fix the Enemy's whole Attention, which cannot be sufficiently commended. Capt. Bourdon, of Haufs's, behaved extremely well. Mess. Richter, Koppelow the Captain, and his Brother the Lieutenant, as well as Ensign Vitzhum, have all behaved as Men of Courage and Honour ought to do.

Capitulation, between his most Serene Highness the Hereditary Prince of Brunswick Luneburg on the one Part; and the Comte de Chabot, Brigadier of the French King's Army, Commander of a Body of Royal Volunteers, and Grand Huntsman of Lorraine and Bar, on the other Part.

1. The Garrison shall go out with all the Honours of War, and the Officers with their Baggage.
2. After the Signing of this present Capitulation, the Garrison shall immediately go to whatever place it may think proper, and no Act of Hostility shall be committed on either Side, till it arrives at the Place of its Destination. The Detachment of Bigneux, of the Regiment of Brittany, which was to come to the Succour of this Place, shall also be comprehended in the present Article.
3. The Count de Chabot gives his Parole of Honour, to deliver up all the Cannon, Ammunition, and Provisions belonging to the French King, to his most Serene Highness; Particulars of which shall be delivered to his most Serene Highness by an Officer appointed for that Purpose.
4. All the Prisoners taken during the Action, as well Officers as private Men, shall be treat-
