Cologne, June 26.

YESTER-DAY Morning His Majesty's Army took Possession of Nuys, after the French had quitted it; but they first fold, gave away, or destroyed their great Magazine. They had their Head Quarters Yesterday at Wohringen; and they were to have been here To-day; but some Alteration has been made since. They pretend they will stand their Ground.

Head Quarters at Osterad, June 27.

The 24th Instant, the Day after the Battle of Crevelt, Major General Wangenheim, with four Battalions and four Squadrons, marched and incamped at Osterad, to sustain the Light Troops that were in Pursuit of the French. The 25th Te Deum was sung in our Camp, with a Feu de Joye, and a general Discharge of all our Artillery. The 26th Major General Wangenheim, with his Corps, advanced to Nuys; and this Day the Army marched in four Columns, and incamped in this Neighbourhood, leaving a Camp at Crevelt, consisting of six Battalions and ten Squadrons, under the Command of the Hereditary Prince, and the Prince of Holstein.

The Enemy are retreated towards Cologne; and by our Accounts Yesterday, their Head Quarters were already at Wering: They have abandoned at Nuys a Magazine of Flour, and another of Oats, which, it is believed, they would have totally destroyed, if our Light Troops would have given them Time; but there is a great Quantity still remaining, that is fit for Service, besides a large Magazine of Oats.

His Serene Highness has made a Present to the Hanoverian Artillery, of a Pair of Kettle Drums we took from the Enemy on the 23d, for their gallant Behaviour on that Day; and, to do them Justice, no Artillery was ever better served, or did more Execution.

Our advanced Guards send in Prisoners every Hour, and a great many French wounded Officers and Soldiers, who could not keep up with the Army, are fallen into our Hands.

Count Gisors, the only Son of Marshal Belleisle, died Yesterday at Nuys, of a Wound he received from a Musquet Ball in the late Engagement.

June 28. Yesterday the Hereditary Prince of Brunswick marched towards Ruremonde; as did the Prince of Holstein to Gladbeck. Duffeldorff has been summoned: Every Thing is ready to bombard the Town, if the Commanding Officer refuses to surrender it.

P. S. The Bombardment of Duffeldorff is actually begun.

Hague, June 30. General Yorke, His Britannick Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary, arrived here this Morning from Berlin.
