Kensington, September 30.

The following Address of the Mayor, Masters, and Capital Burgeses, of the City of Wells, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Mr. Secretary Pitt, has by him been presented to His Majesty: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,
The humble Address of the Mayor, Masters, and Capital Burgeses, of the City of Wells.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Mayor, Masters, and Capital Burgeses, of the City of Wells, in Common Council assembled, beg Leave to congratulate your Majesty on the glorious Success with which it has pleased the Almighty to bless your Majesty's Arms, in regaining the important Fortres and Harbour of Louisbourg, and the Reduction of the Islands of Cape Breton and Saint John: May these Acquisitions (glorious to your Majesty in the Conquest, essentially great to the Nation in its Commerce) remain a Part of the British Dominions, in your Majesty and your Illustrious Family, till Time shall be no more. May the Hand of Providence guide your Majesty's Councils, (steady, disinterested, and honest as they are) to promote and persevere in the Measures already taken and happily conducted, in the distressing our perfidious Enemies both on the Seas and their own Coasts, which must effectually curb their Insolence, and bring them under a Necessity of concluding with us a safe, lasting and honourable Peace. These Views have, and will animate your Majesty's Fleets and Armies, and raise in them true Courage, Ardour, and Intrepidity. This excites our Gratitude, and calls upon us, most humbly to acknowledge your Majesty's Generosity and Goodness, in entering into this just and necessary War, for the Preservation of the Protestant Religion, our Laws, Rights, and Liberties; to support which glorious Purposes, your Majesty may for ever depend on our utmost Efforts.

Given under our Common Seal, the 16th Day of September, 1758.
