

Army had passed Munden by Midnight, we saw, in the Woods upon the Eminences, some Fires, by which we judged the Enemy, who had pursued us through the Defile, were about three or four Thousand Men. The Sick and wounded were carried from Munden in the Night; only 150 were left behind, who were not in a Condition to be removed. There remained at Munden but a very small Quantity of Hay and Straw. General Oberg withdrew the Garrison, and Yesterday the 11th, at Day break, we marched and encamped here, near Gunterheim, without having our Rear at all molested.

We cannot as yet make any certain Estimate of our Loss in wounded and slain. It is thought not to be considerable, and that it does not exceed the Number of One Thousand Men. The Regiments of Isenbourg and Canitz have suffered the most, and are almost ruined. The French had the Advantage of a very great Superiority, for though their Officers, whom we have taken Prisoners, talk of Fifty Thousand Men, it is certain they, at the lowest Computation, exceeded Thirty Thousand, the Saxon Corps having been augmented by a large Detachment under M. de Chevert, and afterwards by the Troops under the Command of Mess. de Fitz-James and Chabot.—It appears that their capital Point was to get between us and Munden; for, besides the unsuccessful Attempt to do it, which they had made on the 9th of October, they detached on the 10th, even in the Midst of the Action, a Body of 5 or 6000 Men to this Side of the Fulde, to try the Fords behind us, which we kept guarded.

Head Quarters at Munster, October 12.

On the 8th Instant, the Army under the Command of Prince Ferdinand, marched to Nottelin, in three Columns, where being joined by the two detached Corps of Lieutenant Generals Imhoff and Wutgenau, we encamped, and the next Day marched to this Place. At the same Time the Corps, under the Command of the Hereditary Prince and the Duke of Holstein, marched to Tellingt, and Yesterday advanced towards Warendorp. A few Days ago Lieutenant Colonel Luckner attacked a Party of the Enemy, composed of Infantry and the Hussars of Nassau Saarbruck, in the Neighbourhood of Mulsungen, whom he defeated, and took three Officers and 56 Men Prisoners.

October 14. This Morning the Corps under the Command of the Hereditary Prince, marched from Warendorp to Rheda; and the Prince of Holstein, with his Corps, is marched to Warendorp, and the Army that was encamped here to Tellingt, leaving a Garrison at Munster.
