Landshut, June 28. The King of Prussia having Notice, that the Austrians were moving towards Lusatia, ordered some Battalions of Grenadiers, accompanied with the Piquets of Dragoons, Hussars, and two Free Battalions, to march; and putting himself at their Head, led them to Schatzlar in Bohemia, of which Place he took Possession, after a very short Resistance.

On the 30th his Prussian Majesty detached the Generals Wedel and Rebenitzh, to occupy Trautenau, of which it was believed they would be in Possession. And at the same Time Lieutenant General Seidlitz was detached towards Hirschberg, in order to secure the Passes, in Case the Enemy should attempt to enter that Way, or through Lusatia into Silesia.

Copenhagen, July 3. On Friday the 29th past, towards Evening, his Danish Majesty returned hither from Holstein in perfect Health, and without having any Court, set out the next Morning for Friedensbourg, where the Court and Council will be held, as usual, on Friday next.

Prince Ferdinand's Head Quarters at Dissen, July 6. On the 3d Instant the Allied Army marched to this Place, where we are still encamped. The same Day Lieutenant General Wangenheim, with his Corps, arrived at Munster, and incamped under the Walls of that Town, and was to be this Day at Ladberg.

Yesterday the Enemy's principal Army was incamped with their Left to Bielefeld, where the Head Quarters were, and their Right towards Hervorden.

Our Hussars, upon our first coming here, were advanced to Halle, from whence they were dislodged the next Day, and driven in upon Ravensberg Castle, where the Chasseurs and the Prussian Light Infantry were posted. The French were about a Thousand strong, composed of Hussars, Voivontaires de Clermont, and Grenadiers Royaux. They came up with great Spirit to the Castle, but were soon obliged to retire, with the Loss of about 20 of their Men. That Post was immediately reinforced with five Battalions of our Grenadiers, and four Squadrons of Dragoons; upon which the French abandoned Halle. On Tuesday last the Black Hussars, with some of the Hessians, killed, and made Prisoners, about 100 of Turpin's Regiment. This Morning the Hereditary Prince was detached to Mello, at which Place there were strong Detachments of the Enemy Yesterday; but it is not said, whether any were found there this Morning. His Highness will return this Evening with Part of his Troops.

Dissen, July 7. We have made no Change in our Position this Day. The Hanoverian Chasseurs this Morning surprized a Post of the Enemy at Nevenkuchen, killed a Captain and about 15 Men, wounded several others, and brought into Camp a Captain, a Lieutenant, and 46 private Men Prisoners, all of the Voivontaires de Clermont.

Hague, July 13. Letters of the 10th Instant from the Allied Army inform us, That Prince Ferdinand's Head Quarters were then at Osnabrug. It is not said, whether the French have yet quitted Bielefeld. The Light Troops of the Allied Army have of late distinguished themselves greatly: Besides the Success they have had against the Voivontaires de Clermont, and the Hussars of Berchini and Turpin, Lieutenant Colonel Freytagg has, in an Expedition upon the Right Bank of the Weser, fallen upon the Regiment of the Voivontaires d'Alsace near Munden, and has killed or taken Prisoners almost the whole Corps.

The States of Holland, who are now assembled, are, this Day, to receive the Demission of M. Steyn their Grand Pensionary, his Term of Years for holding that Office being expired; and he will of Course be requested, with a Compliment of Approbation and Thanks, to continue in his Employment.

General Post Office, July 2, 1759.

These are to give Notice that the Post will go every Night (Sundays excepted) from London to Tunbridge Wells, and from Tunbridge Wells to London, to begin on Thursday next the 5th Instant, and to continue so to do during the Summer Season as usual.

*By Command of the Post master General,
Geo. Shelvoeke, Secretary.*
